Area Of Study :

This course relates political ideas to political realities through effective use of examples and cases studies making theory lively, contentious and relevant. A wide range of pedagogical features helps to clarify, extend and apply students' understanding of the fundamental ideologies and concepts. This is comprised of:

- Case studies demonstrate how political ideas, concepts and issues manifest in the real world.
- Focus boxes encourage students to appreciate alternative viewpoints.
- A range of thought provoking photographs challenge students to examine concepts from a different angle.

Course Goals:

- Define, compare and interpret the relevant political arguments and conceptual/thematic framework covered in the course.
- Create, criticize, defend and communicate strong arguments both verbally and in written form.
- Be Self-Reflective: Students should be able to continuously reflect and reassess the assumptions underlying their own positions and interpretations.

Description :

This course treats the evolution of the main political concepts such as power, state, nation, sovereignty, equality, freedom, democracy, justice and citizenship. It presents the most important trends of thought and debates which affect political theory and theories of international relations represented in many ideologies such as Liberalism, Marxism, Islamism, Utilitarianism, Functionalism, Behaviorism, Constructivism and Realism. It also analyzes many current issues such as multiculturalism, theories of development, integration and political fragmentation.
